Hey, I Didn't Sign Up For This! A Personal Story Of Living With And Surviving Lymphoma And Breast Cancer

Synopsis

Linda tells a moving and inspirational story. With hope and humor, the strength of the human spirit can overcome seemingly insurmountable odds. Readers will be riveted by Linda's honesty and detail in describing the myriad of feelings that accompany a cancer diagnosis. She talks openly about the fear and uncertainty as she describes her daily decision to face each new challenge head-on.

Customer Reviews

Excellent book not only for someone who has had cancer, know someone with cancer, but just "anyone".....it made me really step back and think that when you are out there running just your normal everyday routine to really think and treat everyone with respect as you never know which of those people are going through trials and tribulations of their own. Also, a great book for mothers & daughters....truly an inspiring story.

Linda's journey rang so true to me, as I also have had breast cancer and am now dealing with lymphoma. Linda states at the end of her book, "the most rewarding and precious gift given to me during treatments was the love and kindness of my family and friends." She is so right, as the support I have gotten also comes from my family and friends. This book is very inspirational, especially if you have someone who is going through cancer treatments. A positive outlook on life is the winning ticket for Linda and for all who read her book.

I really wish I had this book while I was going thru Lymphoma. I didnt know what to expect. I could relate to almost everything in this book.. I recommend this book to anyone who wants to understand Lymphoma..

The author's courage and determination give encouragement to those living with cancer - written by someone who has been there herself.
